Use case on Solving Company's Tech Challenges

Saral Ltd. is an ecommerce platform, growing rapidly. They faced a sudden surge in demand for their services during the peak holiday season. Their in-house IT team struggled to keep up with the increasing workload, leading to delays in development projects and a dip in customer satisfaction. Recruiting permanent staff on short notice was impractical due to time constraints and the scarcity of experienced professionals in the market.

HR Head of Saral Ltd. reached out to Integre Solutions to address the talent gap. Leveraging their vast network of tech experts, Integre identified two seasoned developers specializing in e-commerce platforms and project management. These interim professionals seamlessly integrated themselves into the client's IT team, sharing the same workspace, goals, and objectives.

The interim developers brought cutting-edge skills and a fresh perspective to the table with new ideas and best practices. With their expertise, they streamlined operations, optimized the performance, and even introduced automation techniques that further boosted efficiency.
